

An energy company that invests in students today helps power ideas for tomorrow.

Esso is proud to support education and community development.

Our support ranges from primary through to graduate education, including the Esso-Rattanakosin Bicentennial fund, environmental conservation, community development camps, English teaching and language studies, and youth leadership development programs.

We believe students are the most promising resource and the key to the future. Our goal is to provide them the fuel they need to become tomorrow's leaders.
